HUNS LOSE HEAVILY IN BIG DRIVE

FACE HAND TO HAND FIGHTING ENCOUNTERED IN PRESENT BATTLE WITH GERMAN MEN

AMERICANS VICTORIOUS

United States Soldiers in Hot Fighting Kill One Hundred Germans and Capture Many Others

Washington, April 15.—The war department, in its review of the military situation for the week ending April 13, published today, says: "It becomes evident the enemy is striking with renewed vigor at the weakest point he can find opposite him. In the offensive at Picardy the Germans sought for a rift in the line where the French and British forces join. Failing to achieve any definite or far-reaching result they promptly returned to the assault elsewhere, hoping that by driving a wedge in the sector along the front held by Portuguese and British units they may effect a break through."

Fighting heroically in hand-to-hand engagements, British troops have checked the German drive in the region west of Armentieres, and this enemy effort, like the one of Picardy, seems definitely stopped. The Germans have spent thousands of lives in reckless attacks to break through the British line or destroy the British army, but the effort has been without the results desired.

Against the American sector south of Verdun the storming German troops hurled themselves Sunday, but the American infantry men beat the enemy in hot fighting. The enemy withdrew to his trenches with a loss of nearly one hundred men. Northwest of Toul the Germans have not repeated the attack, which cost them four hundred casualties.

About Neuve Englise and near Bailleul Field Marshal Haig's battered division has been putting up desperate resistance.

Changes Hands. Neuve Englise has changed hands several times and is now held by the Germans. A light in which the Germans were victorious. It is an important strategic point as it is one of the outposts of the Meuse ridge. Although they have been able to advance more than several hundred yards. West of the town they have been repulsed and south of Neuve Englise their efforts have also gone for naught.

No change. On the remainder of the front in Artois there has been no change. The apex of the offensive was attempted at Arras, but were dispersed by artillery fire. In Flanders and along the Meuse ridge there has been no further action and the British still hold the heights on the south.

On either wing of the sharp salient around St. Mihiel the American troops in the last few days have been beating off strong attacks.

Helik Back. The enemy has not followed up this effort northwest of Toul and east of St. Mihiel where he was repulsed in two days of hard fighting on the American sector. Sunday attacks on the American sector came after a violent bombardment and was made by picked enemy troops. Prisoners were captured by the American and three German dead and ten wounded were found in the American trenches, while just beyond them were thirty more enemy dead and Americans, with hand grenades and machine guns, were out of their positions to meet the oncoming division. Two American aviators have brought down two enemy airplanes, the enemy planes being captured. Sunday attacks on the Picardy battle front and on the remainder of the front except for artillery duels. Here on a frontage of 16,000 yards stretching from Armentieres to the La

Minor Engagements Between Japs and Russians Reported

Tokio, April 15.—Several instances of Russian sniping against Japanese patrol in Vladivostok are reported in dispatches from that city to the Asahi. One Russian was reported to have been killed. The local council of soldiers and workmen have telegraphed to headquarters urging a dispatch of armed German and Austrian prisoners to Vladivostok as reinforcement.

Self Defense. The Russian foreign minister, according to special dispatch from Eastern Siberia, has telegraphed the Siberian Soviet that there was not sufficient justification for the landing of Japanese and the Russian workmen and soldiers were to be used for self defense of the country. The report that American blue jackets have been disembarked at Vladivostok is unconfirmed and is not credited here. It is understood here the Soviet in Eastern Siberia has protested against the landing of both British and Japanese.

No Official Word. Washington, April 15.—Both navy and state departments today are still without word of the reported landing of American marines at Vladivostok. Related report from Ambassador Francis at Bologna said the Japanese landing is being given far more consideration by the Russian government than by the Russian people.

Basse canal the segment held by the Portuguese troops, flanked on either side by British divisions, was penetrated after intense bombardment. The Portuguese position had been broken, Germans gaining Armentieres and other points. On the first day of the assault the enemy penetrated to depth of two and a fourth to four miles on a front of eleven miles. On the second day the front of attack was extended to 120 miles while the impact of the enemy was shifted down and they were only able to reach a maximum additional depth of two and a fourth miles.

The enemy had made headway along the LaBasse canal to Bethune while other points northwest of the city of considerable tactical importance has fallen into the hands of the enemy.

The enemy now finds himself within forty miles of Citeaux. He will in all probability continue his assault, hoping by enveloping attacks on an oblique front to effect a complete annihilation victory.

There has been less activity on the southern flank of the Picardy salient. Here the line taken by the French and British troops has been consolidated.

The Germans, by costly driven thrusts, were able to force the French out of the triangular area formed by the Oise, Aisne and the old line of the French. The Germans have made desperate attempts to enlarge his galling area from the direction of Noyon, but were everywhere repulsed by French.

North of the Somme the British established their line in the Aveluy wood and took a number of prisoners. In the sector where our own forces are fighting considerable activity prevails. After artillery preparation the Germans launched an attack on our position. Our artillery dispersed the assaulting columns and checked the attack before our lines were reached. Our own infantry counter attacked and drove the Germans back to the line remaining. A number of prisoners were taken. Our casualties were relatively slight.

The enemy conducted minor raids against our outposts in the Woerwa sector. Hostile artillery action throughout the week, both in the Woerwa and in our position. New hill and Woerwa counter battery work was very efficient. Lively shelling took place along the whole Italian front and the Allies executed a number of minor regrouping of the Olegio region.

There has been going on and the continuation of concentration of hostile units is reported. The probability of an enemy offensive in this area is increasing.

Inflict Losses. London, April 15.—Seven attacks by the Germans in the Merville sector of the northern battle front have been reported by the British, who inflicted heavy losses on the enemy. It is announced, officially.

The British have lost Neuve Englise, southwest of Arras, to the Germans. The British position, but were driven out by counter attacks.

Paris, April 15.—In front above Montdidier the French made a successful local attack last night, taking prisoners, the war office announces.

The statement from the German front carried out local operations with complete success and took ten prisoners. Since April 12 we have taken 1500 prisoners in this sector.

Between the Champagne south of Montdidier we carried out several raids and brought back prisoners. A German force of 2000 men was driven back from the north of Chemin-des-Dames without success. There was intermittent shelling at several points on the front.

Driven Out. London, April 15.—Southwest of Bailleul the British succeeded in penetrating our position but were driven out by our counter attack and our line was restored successfully. Minor operations were carried out by the British during the night and 150 prisoners were captured by us.

Severe Fighting. The statement following continued all day yesterday Neuve Englise after beating numerous attacks our troops were compelled to withdraw a second time from the village. The enemy at the attack our line was bent back slightly but completely restored by counter attacks.

Liberty Bond Sale Has Now Opened In All U. S. Districts

Washington, April 15.—The sale of the Third Liberty Loan bonds is in full strength today for the first time in all 21 federal districts. After a delayed start occasioned by a nine days' pre-campaign speaking drive, the Minneapolis district began taking subscriptions.

The outlook in the Minneapolis district for successful sales was good, according to a telegram received today. Fifty thousand enthusiastic workers took the field this morning. The district. According to the latest advice to the treasury department the St. Louis district obtained a larger percentage of its quota than any other district. Subscriptions totaling approximately 36 per cent of the quota of 130 million already have been reported, not including the subscriptions of the city of St. Louis.

Thirty Liberty Loan subscriptions tabulated today at the treasury showed a total of $620,057,550, which is sixty-seven million more than reported Saturday. This is not including the district of Minneapolis which started its campaign today.

which has been taken by the Germans, continued to lag in the rear. The British are pushing the Germans back from Bailleul, northwest of Neuve Englise, is expected momentarily.

The latest report this forenoon showed the British line was being strongly held as a whole, and in some instances had been improved by counter-strokes.

The British last evening followed up their success of Saturday when they pushed the Germans back from Bailleul, northwest of Neuve Englise, is expected momentarily.

The British pushed out several posts north of the canal between Lawe and Clarence river. The operation indicates the defense of the entente allies troops has stiffened.

With the French Army in France, April 15.—American soldiers did brilliant work in fighting against the British at Arras, in the forest of Armentieres, to which branch the war office already has referred.

An account of the engagement which has just reached the war office says that through the French army says that on April 13 in the morning, after a short and severe bombardment, five hundred German troops selected from the entire division made an assault on the French line. The French commander immediately organized a counter-attack in which American troops joined, and after force fighting ejected the enemy. The ground was strewn with German dead and the allies took a number of prisoners.

PATROTC TALKS STIR JANESVILLE

Biggest Meetings Ever Held in Janesville Draw Many Thousands on Sunday.

JACKIE BAND MAKES HIT

Great Lakes Naval Training Band Proves a Decided Feature—Strong Addresses by Dan Grady and Thomas Kearney.

Before two of the largest and most patriotic crowds that have ever attended meetings in this city, Daniel Grady of Portage and Thomas Kearney of Janesville gave two stirring addresses in behalf of the Third Liberty Loan on Sunday evening. Both the Myers Theatre and the Congregational church were packed to overflowing and it was impossible to obtain standing room in either. Long before the meeting at either place was scheduled to start the places were full. At seven fifteen o'clock the first of the evening sessions was opened. It was impossible to get a seat at the Myers Theatre. The gallery was thrown open to the ladies and men and in a few minutes the theatre was packed and nearly one hundred stood standing room behind the scenes.

The meetings last evening proved beyond a doubt that this section of the city is loyal to the cause. Patriotism was the keynote throughout the meeting and if the Kaiser had been in the vicinity of either building he would have been driven out of the city.

The Jackie Band of twenty-five pieces marched from the Y. M. C. A. to the theatre at seven thirty and played a number of popular tunes. The band has never been equalled in this city. Their selection, "Just a Baby's Prayer at Twilight," was beautifully rendered and they were forced to repeat it several times. At eight o'clock the band required to the Congregational church for a concert.

Daniel Grady of Portage, after being introduced by M. G. Jeffries, chairman of the Rock County Liberty Loan Committee, addressed the audience on behalf of the loan drive which opened today. Grady said that the United States is at the present time. He stated that this country was on the threshold of a new era and that the loyalty of this state, as well as all other states of the Union, shall be subjected to close scrutiny until the war is over. He stated that the degree of generosity of the people of this state shall be measured by the way they back the government in these stirring times. He spoke of how it is the first time in the history of the world that soldiers are fighting for American ideals. Going further he spoke of the growth of the German Empire. He told in how many of our soldiers are doing nothing but a soldier's duty and are not fighting for a world state for civilized nations. He told of how for several months it was impossible for people to believe that the Germans were plunging this peaceful world into such a war.

Attacking the growth and policy of Prussianism in vigorous language, Mr. Grady told of the greatest danger to the world was the growth of the German Empire. He told of how for several months it was impossible for people to believe that the Germans were plunging this peaceful world into such a war.

GAZETTE REACHES

PEOPLE IN SOUTH

Local Citizens Spending Winter in Florida Tell of Regularity in Which Local Paper Reaches Them.

A letter recently received at this office from John Rexford of this city is a good example of what value the Gazette is to local people while they are visiting in different sections of the country.

Mr. Rexford has been spending the winter in St. Augustine, Florida, and in his letter tells of the regularity in which the local paper reached him. He tells of how the Janesville people in the South have kept in touch with Janesville through the Gazette. They watched the past election with interest through the Janesville Gazette, which reached them a few days after being published. This letter follows.

"Tuesday, April 24, 1918.

"My dear Gazette:
"May I express the great satisfaction and pleasure caused by your regular appearance in the family circle from February 23rd until today when we have read another Saturday Night, extolling the attraction of a rival resort."

"We have had all the news of the several sections and of the flooded basements, not a single number having missed us. Please send me one more thanks to the management and the mailing list clerk."

"On receipt of letter please send mailing the paper to this address and kindly preserve all later issues for us so that we may obtain them on our return to Janesville."

"With best regards,
"JOHN S. REXFORD."

PATRIOTIC TALKS STIR JANESVILLE

trophy, and how they told with pride of the deeds of valor accomplished by their warriors in bloody battle. He told of how the rulers ruled the country. How German militarism was bred into the people from early childhood. He stated that it is part of their nature to seek to conquer. Mr. Grady then explained the difference between the policies of Germany and the United States. How when this country sought any land they purchased it, rightfully and lawfully, while the Germans sought land they took it by theft. He told of how the people of this country were hated and feared by the big Hun leaders and an army of the German slaves. He spoke of how it was the intention of Germany to bring war upon us and that it was utterly impossible for us to avoid it. He quoted several statements made by German leaders in the past twenty years to prove that the war had been planned.

Going back to the spy system the speaker told how the Huns had endeavored to cause friction between this country and others in order to place the United States in a helpless state which would be much easier for the Germans to win.

Mr. Grady closed his address with a plea for the people of this city to purchase Liberty Bonds and purchase them freely and graciously. He explained what a Liberty Bond represented, told of what a fine investment it was. He told the audience that the Government was not going to pay the money back to them, but that they were purchasing themselves to buy bonds. "The speaker urged the audience to assist the government at this time in order that our heads might not be cut off by the law of might should fail. He spoke of how this country has been a beacon light to the other countries and that it was the duty of every loyal citizen to get behind the country at this time to help in downing Prussianism for all times."

Rev. P. P. Lewis of the Methodist church gave a short address in which he stated that before coming to this state he had heard a great deal of the doubtful loyalty of Wisconsin and that he was astonished at the loyalty of the state and that he was proud to be a part of it. Rev. Lewis also read a short poem written by himself which was received with great ovation.

M. G. Jeffris was the next speaker and in his address told of the purpose of the Liberty Loan. Told of the atrocities committed by the Germans in Belgium and northern France. He spoke of what the boys who were in France were doing and how easy the work was for the people who stayed at home and enjoyed the luxuries of life.

After Mr. Jeffris had finished speaking the Jackie band, which had returned from the Congressional church, rendered two selections and then the speaker of the evening, Mr. Dan Grady, began his address.

In opening Mr. Kearney paid a fitting tribute to the boys of the country who had left their homes to join the army and navy of the United States. He told of how upon joining they had not been promised anything but the government. They might die through the war and they might die on foreign soil. That he stated, was the best promise the government could give the men. He explained that it was a patriotic duty to buy bonds and loan money to the government. He stated that it was patriotic to enlist and fight for your country, but that it was just as patriotic to give money to the government in time of war. He stated that during the present campaign it was necessary for the people to save their money and to purchase bonds. He then spoke to the people who are a little reluctant in purchasing bonds and asked them if they would rather loan the government their money at 4 1/2 per cent, or would rather have Kaiser Bill come over and take it away from them and then die them not having enough.

Mr. Kearney urged the people to have profound interest in the present campaign and to subscribe liberally and help this country in this hour of peril. He told of a few of the innocent women and children of Belgium and stated that he could not relate the whole story, and he hoped that the people of this city would never hear the whole of it, as it was too horrible to tell. He urged the young people of the city to make every effort possible in this campaign. He stated that even the children could help and that they should help as much as possible. He paid a tribute to the mothers of this country and stated that the mothers who had given their sons to the army and navy of this country had done their share. Attacking viciously the men who attempted to hinder the government at this time and also those who refused to purchase bonds, the speaker stated that the citizens ought to get together and purchase a lot of yellow paint and paint the man a property a bright yellow and then some day when they didn't have anything to do they ought to take the man and give him two good coats of the same paint. He branded these men as pure every day yellow.

He pleaded with the audience to report to the authorities any pro-Germans that they knew of. He asked the audience to explain it possible to the Germans about the war, and if they then refused to assist the government, to mark them and when the war was over to take them to the east coast of the United States and chase them back to Germany, the country they love, and leave this beautiful country of ours to the people who love it and are ready at any time to die for it.

In closing, Mr. Kearney asked the people present to take the boys who are fighting to heart and keep them in mind. To remember all times what a sacrifice the fighting men are making and how easy it is for the people who stay at home. He closed his address by stating that the time has now come for the people of this country to either FIGHT OR BUY LIBERTY BONDS.

At Congregational church. The most interesting feature witnessed in the city of Janesville was the description given of the immensely large meeting held in the Congregational church Sunday evening. From chairs in front of the pews, around the pulpit, to the highest seat in the gallery, every place was occupied, and at least 300 people were standing in the rows of the front pews. The speaker was the conservative estimate made of the number of people in attendance, and when the splendid audience was on its feet, and led by the Jackie band, the feeling of patriotic sentiment, the feeling of the patriotic solemnity of the occasion was most intense.

If, as was intimated by one speaker, German spies were abroad in the land, making account of the meetings held in Wisconsin at this time, they would have most discouraging reports to send to the Kaiser at Berlin, in regard to disloyalty.

The community gave a rousing answer to charges of unpatriotic feeling in the state of Wisconsin by its splendid response to the call for service given in its meetings of last evening, and definitely registered itself, along with the rest of Rock county as once again the banner region of the state.

Youth was supreme at this meeting of last evening, and contrary to precedent, were given the seats of honor. The famous Jackie band, of course, were the guests of honor, and were seated near the platform, and they played as their opening number the stirring march of "The Stars and Stripes," after which they played an overture containing patriotic melodies and led in the singing of America. The Janesville high school cadets, clad in their new grey uniforms, marched in a body to the church, and occupied reserved seats opening immediate front pews, several of their number doing efficient service as ushers in the several entrances of the church.

Behind them were seated the members of the high school, five hundred strong, and in another group the members of the School for the Blind. A chorus of thirty voices from the latter school, both boys and girls, occupied the choir loft and led in the singing of the patriotic songs. They also sang, "Fighting for Liberty," and the "Marsellaise."

Taken all in all, these young people gave a most impressive and woman of the morning, made a splendid showing of the possibilities of the race. They were earnest and attentive to the speakers and to the stirring songs of the nation lustily, in a way to give shame to their elders.

It was to them, chiefly that Rev. Mahoney, as chairman of the meeting, asked for the most impressive remarks, are making history, in this country at the present time," he said, "and I want you to realize the great privilege of taking part in these events. Many of you will live to tell of things that happened in this great world's war. You will be proud to remember details of happenings and to recount the part played by your home town in this great crisis in history. Those of your relatives who went at the call of duty, will be treasured in your memory, and their names will be brought home to you in this way."

Later in the evening Father Mahoney made a powerful appeal for patriotic support of the Liberty Loan. He asked the question of them, "Why did you come? Who sent for you, and what kind of a reception did America give to you?" The answer was given to them by the nation: "Stranger you are welcome; you are seeking opportunity, here you have it; take it and enjoy it. It is yours."

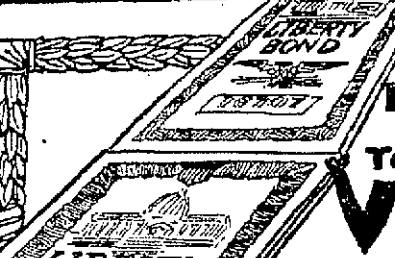

He then enlarged on the privileges enjoyed by the American citizen and said that the same were offered to the foreign born when they signed their wish to become citizens. These adopted children of this great republic, said Rev. Mahoney, "have all the good things belonging to the native born American." "All that this country has to give them shall be theirs. They shall be citizens, and they shall be free. In this respect," said the speaker, "America has been an example in generosity for all other nations of the earth."

Rev. Mahoney then emphasized the fact that so far our nation had asked nothing of her sons. We had been given everything and had been returned to give nothing in return. In this hour of the nation's need, we were only asked as dutiful sons to loan of our surplus means, to help this parent in a financial crisis. Many stories were told by Father Mahoney in illustrating the points at issue, and the audience was a most responsive one, and thoroughly enjoyed the humorous thoughts suggested. They were swayed by the eloquence of Hon. Dan Grady in his splendid address, and responded silently to his vivid word picture when he said in closing, "Victory will be ours, because God is just. America will live as a refuge for the world's oppressed people."

Equally impressive was the earnest plea given as a lawyer for his client, the Hon. Thomas M. Kearney, who in a clear, logical manner presented his case for the "Boys in Blue, and the Boys in Brown." Those who heard him will never forget with what simple, solemn earnestness, he asked support for the manhood of the nation, who stepped forward at the call of duty, and answered, "Here I stand."

Any enjoyable instrumental music was rendered by the orchestra of the School for the Blind, whose artistic rendition of high class music is always appreciated by Janesville.

Besides several selections, taking in popular patriotic melodies, they played a choral of Mendelssohn's, which was a marvel in its tone quality. All the arrangements of the meeting were carefully worked out by the committees, and the thanks of the community and especially of its young people, are due them for the plans made for them.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MISS THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am of middle age and for over three years have been courting a young lady fifteen years my junior. She is well educated, industrious, good kind, and I ask her if she cares to continue your engagement.

able to lie. You should not have been harsh even if she had been doing something disloyal. She probably would not have cried if she had not cared. I believe that I would write and ask her if she cares to continue your engagement.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl of sixteen and I am good-looking. My mother does not consent to my going with fellows or for them to come to the house. Do you think I am too young and should I stay at home? My mother's advice and do as she says.

You are too young to go with boys and rather young to let them call at your house. Follow your mother's advice.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls sixteen years of age and what you would call good-looking. We are not regarded as girls, but the boys around here do not seem to care for our company. They can talk and joke with us, but do not seem to care to take us out evenings.

We usually manage to show them a good time when they are with us, and always try to be as sociable as possible, but when they are with other girls they act as strangers, sometimes not even speaking.

Do you think the fault lies on our part or theirs.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is it proper for girls and boys of sixteen to have social meetings once a week?

I think neighborhood gatherings of young people are a good thing. Such meetings should not keep you out late at night.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is the lancet for hair a salve or a liquid?

It is a salve.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

A gentleman always rises and offers his hand on being introduced to another gentleman.

Parents should not extend to their children exactly the same courtesy that they demand from them. It is unreasonable for you to expect your child to love and respect you merely because you are his mother; your child must be based on the loving care you give him and upon the inflexible uprightness of character which he discovers in you.

It is impossible to "honor" one's father and one's mother unless they prove themselves worthy of honor. And if your child is inclined to be ill-behaved that he is what his ancestors have made him; his character did not originate with him.

One should be very careful never to discuss one's private affairs in a public place, not a member of the family.

be wasted. Spread it out and keep in warm place in morning stir down and put in pans with spoons, so it is too soft to knead. Let rise again and when light bake from forty-five to sixty minutes, then medium yield three loaves.

SPANISH MEAT LOAF. One pound hamburger, one cup cooked rice, one cup strained tomatoes, one-half cup bread crumbs, one teaspoon salt, one dash onion powder. Mix, make in loaf, bake forty minutes, baste with hot water to which a little butter or bacon grease has been added. Will serve eight persons.

"GOLDEN FLAT CAKE." Two cups cornmeal, two cups of whole wheat flour, one teaspoonful baking powder, one cup sugar, one cup of preserved rhubarb or pine apple or any kind of preserves you may have; if you have none, take another cup of milk and mix rather stiff batter and bake in a moderate oven thirty minutes. If you have no preserves you might slice a few tart apples on the top just before you put in the oven.

POTATO APPLES. To cups hot rice potatoes, one-third cup grated cheese, two tablespoons butter, cayenne, one-half teaspoon salt, two tablespoons milk, two egg yolks, nutmeg.

Remove seeds from peaches (fresh or canned), wash, cut in halves, and run through meat chopper; moisten with mayonnaise. Place on lettuce leaf, serve with mayonnaise.

MILWAUKEE, April 15.—Masons of Wisconsin opened their spring reunion here today with an elaborate war program. Patriotic features have been arranged to supplement former extravagant entertainment during the third annual gathering. Thousands of Masons from all sections of the state were here today.

There seemed so many reasons why Claire should marry Hiram. She thought that her mind at last submitted to the mold of common sense. For one thing, her mother seemed to draw a tonic both physical and spiritual from the engagement. The day she heard of it she sat up in bed for the first time in weeks. When Claire saw the look of animated satisfaction on her face her heart gave a throb of gladness. At least her sacrifice was not in vain.

Such a splendid thing, Claire! smiled Mrs. Berton, bridling with pleasure. You'll have every comfort. Hiram's the nicest fellow. And think of the business of his—five thousand a year if he makes a cent! It'll put us all on our feet. I declare, I never thought such a grand thing could happen to us.

So Claire tried to think of it as a "grand thing"—tried to drug her mind into a sort of romantic insensibility. Resolutely she set her face into a smile, and she responded to all congratulations and inquiries with a show of eagerness. She was sweet and kind to Hiram, who was as awkwardly youthful as a colt that had expected to be tossed in a corral pasture. She talked down to his level, feigning an animated interest in the drug store, discussing the problem of getting a new dress, and she tried to retain Mrs. Berton as housekeeper or take over those duties herself, planning how a happier system of planning and housekeeping might be managed. In short, Claire made the best of it.

There was a general social commotion in Turners Junction when Claire finally announced the wedding date. Old Miss Cowan was the only one in town who had never offered Claire congratulations nor made her a gift for her trousseau. One day Claire met her rolling out from her hand-

CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN DAYS ARE AT HAND

ENTIRE CITY SHOULD BE CLEANED AS A PREVENTATIVE OF ANOTHER OUTBREAK OF CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

"CART RUBBISH AWAY"

Progressive City Like Janesville Should Wake Up and Clean Up Its Alleys and Other Places Where There Is Rubbish.

(By Mrs. Abbie Helms.)

"Clean up, burn up and wash up, and cart away" should be the slogan of the city during the present month before May 1st. The outbreak of contagious diseases, which has been prevalent during the last three months in the city makes a thorough cleaning up of streets and alleys very necessary as a preventive measure. One hundred and eighteen cases of smallpox, 120 cases of scarlet fever, together with 70 or 80 cases of measles, and innumerable cases of chicken pox show that more care than usual should be taken to remove dirt, ashes, and rubbish from back yards and alleys.

Although it is proven that germs of these and other contagious diseases do not originate from dirt and filth, yet they form a favorable culture bed in which the germs flourish and propagate if present at all.

The city is very fortunate in having an unlimited supply of pure water, taken from wells below the rock, hence the number of typhoid cases in the last four years has been limited to two cases, both of whom admitted having drunk river water. During the recent high water of the river, the city's water supply was absolutely without contamination, being pumped from the wells directly into the pipes. But in the case of alleys, there is nothing to brag of in the city, in regard to cleanliness, and this is due mostly to the lack of a municipal garbage collection system. In the business districts, the garbage is carted away at night and dumped upon some one else's premises, and the latter refuse to clean it up. They are also always running out or in, and leaving their season's accumulation of filth for some one else to dispose of.

There will never be even an approximate cleanliness of alleys until the city establishes municipal garbage wagons, with regular routes, and done by responsible parties. This would not be a very expensive proposition, either, as it would be well worth while for some one to take it over, for the use of hogs and chickens. This disposal of garbage probably has been the cause of many back yard quarrels than other civic matter, and is still far from satisfactory.

Another matter in which the city has been very lax is in regard to the toilets, many of these archaic institutions being seen in even the business districts. They are a menace to health, sightliness, and every other consideration of a clean city. When they exist in alley ways and back yards, they are usually flanked by piles of ashes, tin cans and other debris, not very ornamental. An estimate of the garbage carted away shows the fact that there were over 2000 out-door toilets in the city readily seen from the sidewalk, besides those concealed in sheds and other out-buildings. One first ward resident, after building an enclosed dining porch, found that they had a beautiful outlook on seven toilets, and old barns in the immediate vicinity. Not only did they mar the landscape, but during the hot weather smelt to heaven with their odors. Any of these neighbors would have felt it an indignity to have their name on the door of a toilet. If any complaint had been made, and yet these things destroyed the beauty and tidiness of the whole neighborhood.

In the downtown district it would seem as though some zone should be established wherein these out-door toilets should be abolished. The writer noted twelve places of this kind in one block within the second block of North bluff, only two blocks from Milwaukee street. And many of them exist everywhere, in alleys just off the business streets. The city should take some definite stand in regard to this matter, and see that out-door toilets are eliminated from a specified area about the business districts. And as far as possible, the better residential districts which are most thickly settled.

The time has gone past when any man can live to himself alone, without regard to their neighbors. And the sooner a city recognizes this fact the sooner it will be classed in an up-to-date way. The present cleaning up campaign has been a considerable effort in this direction, but has no jurisdiction as regards a zone area. He is very earnestly in favor of having some such a zone established, and he says that other cities are waking up to this.

Some driveway in her handsome motor car—a lonely, tiny figure strapped to the eternal pathos of solitary old age.

"Come, get in here, Claire, and take a ride with me," she called, signaling her driver to stop. Claire stepped out the day after her twenty-sixth birthday when Miss Prue had first scolded her into going away from Turners Junction to "hunt a husband and happiness."

"Claire, why are you such a stubborn little fool?" asked Miss Prue, without primities, as they started off. "Do you think money's going to compensate you for being Hiram's wife? Look at me. I've got money, and I'm the loneliest woman this side of heaven. I'm not married, you'll say. Why never will you be married if you marry Hiram."

"What is marriage? Not just being legally tied and having a house and living it! Marriage is LOVE, Claire. You're trying to find the face of Providence to try and make marriage out of anything else."

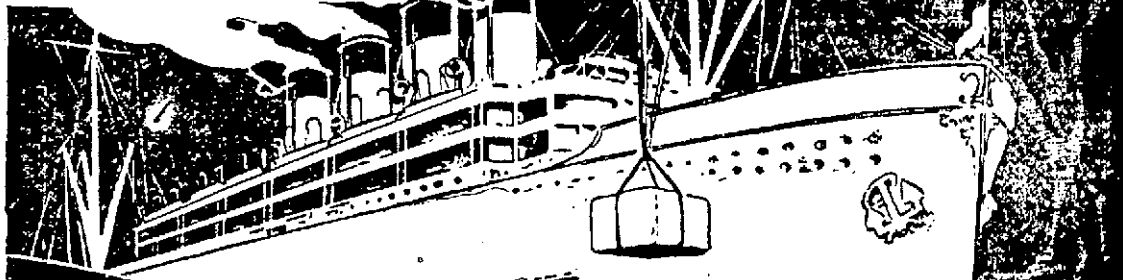

Claire struggled to keep the stabbing from killing her courage. "Too late, dear," she said gently. "The day's set. I couldn't turn back now even if I wanted to. And—and I don't even if I wanted to."

"Claire—you're not deceiving me—nor yourself. You know you're doing wrong. You're even doing wrong to Hiram. Yes, you are. A girl's got no more right to marry any man without loving him."

"He knows how I feel, Miss Prue. I'll make him happy. And this little girl," Claire smiled, "is my wife."

"Listen, my child," said the old lady tensely. "Will you go buy yourself some pretty things in New York as my wedding present to you?"

Acquiring a Perfect Figure

Most women who have perfect figures did not have them originally. They have acquired them. A woman gradually takes the shape of her corset so the corset produced by the most artistic designer is the right one to wear to secure a perfect figure.

MODART CORSETS

are most symmetrically and artistically designed. They are comfortable, stylish and gradually mold the figure into those beautiful lines that every woman admires and desires.

Have a trial fitting at our store and we believe we can show you at first fitting an improvement in your figure. Further improvements will be shown as you gradually "shape up," under the influence of the MODART Corset.

THE CALLOUSED SOLE

Callosities are hardening and thickening of the horny layer of the skin produced by prolonged rubbing, pressure or irritation.

The common cause of callus on the foot is faulty shoes. Too many shoemakers have their confirmed notions about the shape of the human foot, and nothing less than a shoe made to the shape of the foot will do.

It is a bad way. All of which is the shoemaker's system of dealing with normal feet that will have nothing but normal shoes. The abnormality is fashionable or correct; the normal is common, vulgar, uncouth.

The diameter of the forward part of a normal foot meets at an angle of about 35 degrees off the straight line. That is to say, a strong, well formed foot not cramped in wrongly shaped shoes turn in, not out.

Wear shoes made to fit your feet and you will have no trouble from calluses! Pluck, twist and deform the foot to fit the fashionable shoe.

Keep Things Off Your Nerves. Last evening I took my twenty-four hour trip on the train.

It was a tedious trip at best. And I did not have it at best. I had it at worst. An official planned and packed for me a train that was taken off two years ago (and yet men get the vote). As a result, instead of a limited that would have covered the ground in local took nine.

Incidentally, there was no dinner and no Pullman.

Just carry yourself back to some such experience in your past, and you can reconstruct my feelings.

During about the fourth hour of that tedious visitation, I found myself sitting in a perfect hodge of nerves and weariness.

All I Had To Do Was To Sit Still and Be Calm.

And then, somehow, out of some where came a flash of inspiration. This thing can't take you unless you let it get to your nerves, it said to me. All you've got to do is sit still in a fairly comfortable chair and read a book or look out of the window.

Just keep it off your nerves, and it can't hurt you.

And that is exactly what I did. And the flash was right.

It didn't hurt me.

It is a matter of fact, there are very few things that can hurt us, unless we let them.

WISCONSIN'S PART.

Wisconsin has joined itself to the drama of a disloyal state and has sent to the senate of the United States a man whose loyalty is unquestioned and who will be an honor to the senate and the state. Newspapers have been prone to comment on Wisconsin's attitude and the following article prepared by Hon. L. C. Whitte, assemblyman from the first district of Rock county, on Wisconsin's war activity should be read by all that they may be prepared to refute any adverse comment on the good name and the honor of the state. Mr. Whitte has made a careful compilation of all the various activities and it is interesting reading.

1. Wisconsin was the first state in the Union to organize a State Council of Defense. Today every state has a council. The suggestion for the legislature for the National Council of Defense came from Wisconsin, and our own Council of Defense developed from the same suggestion.

2. Wisconsin was the first state to pass legislation providing aid for soldiers' dependents. A number of states have passed similar laws, none of which are as liberal as the Wisconsin law.

3. Wisconsin was one of the first states to pass legislation exempting a man in the naval or military service from civil process.

4. Wisconsin suggested to Washington authorities the use of election machinery for registration of men subject to draft. Wisconsin is the only state that has passed a law offering without cost to the national government the election machinery of the state for the purposes of registering men for military service. The expense is borne by local communities as election expenses are borne. The election machinery of the state was used under this law on June 5, 1917, and will be used again for the registration of the men who became twenty-one during the past year.

5. Wisconsin was the first state in the Union to file in Washington its complete report of registration. Wisconsin filed this report four hours earlier than the District of Columbia. Wisconsin's administration of the draft law is called "superior" by President Marshall General Crowder. In a telegram dated June 28, 1917, General Crowder says: "I have come to expect the impossible of Wisconsin."

6. Wisconsin registered 104.3 of the estimated number as based on population. The state of Washington registered 59.9.

7. Wisconsin's percentage of men of military age failing to respond to the draft was less than two per cent. The percentage in the United States as a whole was 8.2 per cent.

8. Wisconsin by volunteer enlistment filled the ranks of its national guard to full war strength of approximately 15,000 men.

9. Wisconsin sent her national guard south to Camp MeArthur fully equipped, at state's expense. Every soldier wore a khaki uniform, all had received shoes, campaign hats, leggings, wooden shoes, blankets, etc. Every man had a modern gun, his own mess kit and every company had its own mess outfit, its tents and its own horse and its own present war work Wisconsin has expended over seven hundred thousand dollars.

10. A comparative table of volunteer enlistments in states surrounding Wisconsin as well as several southern states is as follows:

Wisconsin's volunteer enlistment was 54.16 per cent; Iowa, 49.76; Ohio, 41.20; Indiana, 41.40; Illinois, 34.52; Minnesota, 31.31; Georgia, 32.42; North Dakota, 31.39; Michigan, 30.85; Louisiana, 26.33; Oklahoma, 21.78.

In a report rendered by the war department, Wisconsin ranks seventh among all the states, territories and possessions of the Union upon basis of percentage of volunteer enlistment, being exceeded only by Hawaii, Oregon, District of Columbia, Maine, New Hampshire, Wyoming, Vermont, Rhode Island, Kansas and North Dakota.

11. The Chicago Tribune recently published an article in which it was stated that the state of Wisconsin was the eighth state that had failed to fill its quota of allotment to the regular army. In this statement no credit was given to Wisconsin volunteers in national guard, marine corps, or any of the other special units.

The total credit of volunteer enlistments acknowledged to be due the state of Wisconsin is 23,660. Add to this number 7,500 known to have enlisted in special units and we have a volunteer enlistment from this state of 31,160.

12. Wisconsin's net quota of men, therefore, allotted to be furnished under the draft was 12,976. Wisconsin has actually furnished 14,690, an excess of 1,714 over the required quota. This excess is explained by the fact that the state of Wisconsin voluntarily possessed themselves for induction into the military service.

The average percentage of credits for volunteer enlistments in the United States as a whole was 40.42. Wisconsin's percentage was 54.16.

Wisconsin had a higher percentage for volunteer enlistment than the following northern states: Pennsylvania, Ohio, Connecticut, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, Illinois, Michigan, North Dakota.

13. Wisconsin has more boys on the fighting front in Europe than any other state in the Union, with the possible exception of Massachusetts. One out of every twenty men in France today is a Wisconsin boy.

Wisconsin's administration of the draft act disturbed the marriage relationship less than any other state in the Union.

14. Wisconsin subscribed to the first Liberty loan $38,238,750. In the second Liberty loan Wisconsin subscribed $87,056,000. The forty-five counties in the Chicago Federal Reserve district subscribed 155 per cent of its minimum allotment. The subscription of the states comprising this district is as follows: Wisconsin, 155 per cent; Illinois, 152.8; Michigan, 142.5; Indiana, 122; Iowa, 111.47.

Kenosha county was the banner county with a subscription of 223.8 per cent. Milwaukee county subscribed 141.5 per cent.

15. Wisconsin has subscribed to the Red Cross approximately $1,000,000; Y. M. C. A., $1,015,000; Y. W. C. A., $67,000; K. of C., $125,000; through rotary clubs, $50,000; other organizations $100,000. Or, Wisconsin has raised by subscription for war activities approximately $128,000,000, being the first and second Liberty loans.

THE DRIVE IS ON.

The third great blow at the "Beast of Berlin" has begun and Rock county is prepared to show its loyalty by liberal contributions to the third Liberty loan. Plans have been carefully prepared that the drive may be most successful. Based on the same plan as "Your Share is Fair," it is expected that the results will be most satisfactory. Rock county has too many boys already in France, in training camps and others listed to leave shortly, to fail to back them up by neglecting to purchase a bond. Janesville itself has many hundreds of young men in service and each one of these boys is making his share in actual war. It is imperative that we who remain at home do ours by aiding in financing this war and purchasing a Liberty bond. The drive is on and do your share, and do it willingly.

Edgerton News

Edgerton, April 15.—The largest gathering ever held in Edgerton took place yesterday afternoon when the Jackie band from the Great Lakes training station gave an open air concert, after which two meetings were held to promote the third Liberty loan. One meeting was held at the Lyric Theatre. Both houses were packed to capacity. Hon. Daniel Grady of Portage and Hon. Thos. Kearney of Racine spoke before the audience. Strong appeals to the audiences in behalf of the Liberty Loan. At the Lyric theatre Attorney P. N. Grubb was master of ceremonies and introduced the speakers arrived from Royal Hall. At Royal Hall J. J. Lear was master of ceremonies. City Attorney Blanchard introduced the first speaker, Hon. Grady. Hon. L. C. Whitte gave a short talk on what Wisconsin has accomplished in the war and introduced the next speaker, Hon. Kearney, who gave a most stirring appeal to the citizens. While the band was playing several hats were passed through the crowd and a sum of money amounting to more than $110.00 was collected for the band. Attorney L. H. Towne spoke a few words to the audience and asked that people make it their business to purchase Liberty bonds without the committee calling on them. He stated that both banks would be open on Monday and Wednesday evenings in this week to receive subscriptions to the loans. It is hoped that people will go to the banks and buy bonds, which will greatly lessen the work of the committees in charge of the drive in the city.

The Ladies' Federation of Women's Clubs were in receipt of a draft from the International Federation of Women's Clubs Saturday, committing to them the money paid as a tax and penalty imposed on a dance given by them to raise funds that were handled through the Red Cross. That the matter was brought in so short a time is indeed gratifying to all concerned.

It is very apparent that the committee in charge of rounding up the last of the "Your Share is Fair" money is determined to make every one come across. The committee rides in a large automobile and has plenty of agents of their territory and their ability to collect is unsurpassed, even by men who specialize on collections. On Saturday they made a trip east of the city and after vain attempts to make the collection peacefully resorted to harsher persuasion with good results. When the committee have finished with their territory they will be able to report 100 per cent or know the reason why.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kruse Jr. are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby boy born the last of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Emerson of Rockford who have been visiting at the home of relatives in the city returned to their home at Rockford Sunday.

A meeting of the Committee in charge of the third Liberty Loan drive was held in the city Saturday evening. The quota for the city is $140,000.00. J. M. Conway, C. W. Burckmeyer, and Andrew McIntosh were made captains for the drive and they in turn will appoint their lieutenants as their assistants. Edgerton will be a little behind in the last drive and an extra effort will be made to go over the top on this drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Caughey of Madison motored to the city Sunday and called on friends.

Rev. M. R. Brandt, pastor of the Congregational church, read his resignation to his congregation Sunday morning. It is with deep regret that the members of the congregation received the resignation. While Rev. Brandt has been in the city he has made many warm friends, especially among the younger members of the church, who will deeply regret his leaving the city. He has accepted a call from Sheboygan and expects to leave for that city about the middle of June.

Warren, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Forest Fessenden, was at Janesville Saturday, accompanied by his mother and Mrs. J. J. Conway. While Mr. and Mrs. Fessenden were in Janesville arrangements were made to have the little fellow enter the Mercy Hospital, where he will submit to treatment for ulcers of the eyes.

The committee on public information, committees created by the order of President Wilson, has made it known that it desires to carry the message not only to moving picture audiences but to every assemblage of people, pastors of churches, teachers of rural as well as city schools, and people who arrange for any public gathering may on application for a free, chairman of the four minute men, be provided with a speaker, and no public gathering should be held without being provided with a four minute speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gleave of Oshkosh were week-end visitors in the city.

W. S. Maddies of Madison was a Sunday guest at the home of his sister, Belle Wilson.

Mr. Conway returned Sunday from a trip through the West. He reports a most pleasant journey.

Whitewater News

Whitewater, April 15.—This city has not had such a crowd of people turn out to a demonstration in a long time as there was on Saturday afternoon. It was patriotic day and the crowd gathered early in the afternoon. The parade was to form at the depot headed by boy scouts, then the campfire girls, city officials, liberty bond collectors, Spanish war veterans, Red Cross nurses, Loyalty Legion, students from both normal and high schools. The weather was ideal and all were in their places waiting for the Jackie band to come on the 2:51 train. It seems that something always happens to mar the efforts here of the people in charge of any demonstration and it did not fail this time. It was given out at the depot that the train was twenty minutes late and so the people waited. It got to be a half an hour and more and no train. Word from the depot said that the train had left Palmyra twenty-five minutes before, which would have been ample time for it to get here. George Crumb and Howard Amman thought something must have happened to the train and started east by auto looking for it. There were no special limit signs and they were soon five miles east of town where they found the train with the engine dead. A. M. Hansen and R. K. Coe were soon on the scene and arrangements made to have the band to town by auto, word having been sent back for cars. In the meantime the parade marched about the city streets, led by Captain J. J. Downey with his drum. The Jackie band arrived here about 4:30 and gave a concert in front of Hotel Waldworth. After the concert they went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Coe and played a few pieces. Lawrence Buckley, son of Mrs. Coe, who died here a week ago of black diphtheria, was a member of the Great Lakes training station, and a round round of the band to respond so readily to the request made to them. In the evening the exercises were held at the normal gymnasium, where the band gave a concert and speeches were made by Thomas Kearney and Mr. Grady. The band remained here all night and left next morning for Edgerton and Janesville.

E. G. Lange left today for Fort Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Ky., where he will enter the work of Y. M. C. A. secretary. The future field of his activities has not yet been settled. Prof. Lange has been at the normal school for the past five years and has not only been a teacher, but a practical all-round man. He is an interesting and able talker, an accomplished musician, and a worker in religious and patriotic movements. Mrs. Lange and son will remain at the Godfrey home here.

Arthur Teahedy of Camp Grant, was here Saturday to visit friends. He had to be back by noon Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Tubbs and Howard and Miss Florence Reeling of Corner Grove, thought it a fine time to see Camp Grant, so they took him there by auto.

During the exercises at the normal gymnasium Saturday, some party or parties took the auto of Mr. and Mrs. Fern Lerwill of Richmond. The machine could not be found and Mr. and Mrs. Lerwill were taken home by a neighbor. Later that evening the car was found out near Ralph Tratt's farm, about a mile west of this city.

Mrs. W. M. Noble of La Grange, Ill., spent a few days the past week with Mrs. E. Damm. Her husband is in Singapore, Siam, and she expects to join him there later.

Ed. Winn was a visitor in Milwaukee Friday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Reider spent Saturday night and Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Fred Kutz and family at Cold Spring.

Mrs. Fred Schneider spent Saturday in Milwaukee.

Mrs. Meister and daughter, Hattie of Palmyra, were here Saturday to attend the exercises.

Whitewater News
 Whitewater, April 15.—This city has not had such a crowd of people turn out to a demonstration in a long time as there was on Saturday afternoon. It was patriotic day and the crowd gathered early in the afternoon. The parade was to form at the depot headed by boy scouts, then the campfire girls, city officials, liberty bond collectors, Spanish war veterans, Red Cross nurses, Loyalty Legion, students from both normal and high schools. The weather was ideal and all were in their places waiting for the Jackie band to come on the 2:51 train. It seems that something always happens to mar the efforts here of the people in charge of any demonstration and it did not fail this time. It was given out at the depot that the train was twenty minutes late and so the people waited. It got to be a half an hour and more and no train. Word from the depot said that the train had left Palmyra twenty-five minutes before, which would have been ample time for it to get here. George Crumb and Howard Amman thought something must have happened to the train and started east by auto looking for it. There were no special limit signs and they were soon five miles east of town where they found the train with the engine dead. A. M. Hansen and R. K. Coe were soon on the scene and arrangements made to have the band to town by auto, word having been sent back for cars. In the meantime the parade marched about the city streets, led by Captain J. J. Downey with his drum. The Jackie band arrived here about 4:30 and gave a concert in front of Hotel Waldworth. After the concert they went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Coe and played a few pieces. Lawrence Buckley, son of Mrs. Coe, who died here a week ago of black diphtheria, was a member of the Great Lakes training station, and a round round of the band to respond so readily to the request made to them. In the evening the exercises were held at the normal gymnasium, where the band gave a concert and speeches were made by Thomas Kearney and Mr. Grady. The band remained here all night and left next morning for Edgerton and Janesville.

E. G. Lange left today for Fort Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Ky., where he will enter the work of Y. M. C. A. secretary. The future field of his activities has not yet been settled. Prof. Lange has been at the normal school for the past five years and has not only been a teacher, but a practical all-round man. He is an interesting and able talker, an accomplished musician, and a worker in religious and patriotic movements. Mrs. Lange and son will remain at the Godfrey home here.

Arthur Teahedy of Camp Grant, was here Saturday to visit friends. He had to be back by noon Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Tubbs and Howard and Miss Florence Reeling of Corner Grove, thought it a fine time to see Camp Grant, so they took him there by auto.

During the exercises at the normal gymnasium Saturday, some party or parties took the auto of Mr. and Mrs. Fern Lerwill of Richmond. The machine could not be found and Mr. and Mrs. Lerwill were taken home by a neighbor. Later that evening the car was found out near Ralph Tratt's farm, about a mile west of this city.

Mrs. W. M. Noble of La Grange, Ill., spent a few days the past week with Mrs. E. Damm. Her husband is in Singapore, Siam, and she expects to join him there later.

Ed. Winn was a visitor in Milwaukee Friday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Reider spent Saturday night and Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Fred Kutz and family at Cold Spring.

Mrs. Fred Schneider spent Saturday in Milwaukee.

Mrs. Meister and daughter, Hattie of Palmyra, were here Saturday to attend the exercises.

William Lloyd was home from Waukesha Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Horne and Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Horne spent Friday in Janesville.

Two Organizations.
 Neenah, Wis., April 15.—The recent local option vote here, putting Neenah in the wet column by thirteen majority, has had the effect of splitting the Twin City Dry League into two separate organizations—one at each town. Neenah is disgusted with Menasha for giving its action and meant a five hundred plurality.

WOODSTOCK MEN ARE CONVINCED BY JUDGE

Heavy Fines Handed to Young Offenders Proved to Them that Janesville is no Place for a Good Time.

Judge Maxfield thoroughly convinced four young men from Woodstock, Illinois this morning in the municipal court that Janesville is no place to come if they wish to get drunk and have good times. The four young men came to this city on Saturday, as Woodstock is dry, to get a few drinks, as they termed it, and this morning they were brought before Judge Maxfield on their contemplated good time with a fine of $25 and costs or thirty days in jail for each one of them.

In court the young men, Edward King, W. R. Hasset, F. S. Alumbaugh and Edward Comiskey, presented a different appearance than they did when arrested. The judge gave them an emphatic explanation of the stand which was taken against those who come to Janesville to get their liquor.

Three other offenders were arraigned on drunkenness charges and were handed stiff fines by the judge. William Pratt, of Oregon, pleaded guilty and was fined $20 and costs or the alternate of spending twenty-five days in jail. John Doughty paid a fine of $5 and costs and Tom Raymond $10 and costs.

Frank Vonesh, charged with stealing a Ford automobile, the property of John Goetz of Evansville, on Saturday evening from the corner of Franklin and Milwaukee streets, pleaded guilty to the charge and the judge decided to sentence him tomorrow.

Miss Meyers was also brought in. She was arrested with Vonesh at Beloit. As Meyers had nothing to do with the stealing of the car he was released.

JACKIE BAND IS PLEASED AT TREATMENT OF THE "Y"

Tomorrow morning the Jackie band will again breakfast at the Y. M. C. A., according to information from C. C. Baumann this morning. The Great Baumanns had breakfast here this morning and later left on a tour through Beloit and Clinton. The sailors expressed themselves in the highest terms at the royal treatment accorded them by the local Y. M. C.

Discovers Peculiar Egg: A. W. Brewer of Albany was in the city on Saturday for a visit with friends. He discovered a peculiar egg which he recently discovered in his hen house. The egg has a pure white stripe about a half inch wide all around. Near one end of the egg a large white spot is also noticeable.

Important Meeting: Regular meeting will be held Tuesday at 8:15 o'clock sharp. Ticket and lunch.

LOAN DRIVE OPENED HERE THIS MORNING

THIRD LIBERTY LOAN CAMPAIGN
OPENED WITH BIG DRIVE
TODAY—WORKERS WELL
PLEASED WITH SUCCESS
$200,000 SUBSCRIBED

Over One-Fourth of Quota Raised in
First Day of Drive—Expect to Go Over Top By Wednesday Evening.

Sweeping on to victory with a drive that surpasses anything ever attempted by the Germans under the guidance of Von Hindenburg, the Janesville Liberty Loan committee completed the first day with assurance that the goal they are striving for will be reached by Wednesday evening, the day set for the close of the drive.

With every team in the field the drive opened at nine o'clock this morning and the grins that are being worn in the campaign will carry and news to the Kaiser and his cohorts who are sitting in Berlin watching the present loan campaign eagerly. It could be great news for Wilhelm if the drive should fail but such is not to be and poor Bill is scheduled for another bitter disappointment.

A. F. Lovejoy, president of the Janesville Liberty Loan committee, stated that a conservative estimate of the result of the first day's drive would be $200,000. That is the answer the people of Janesville are sending across the ocean to the Emperor William who has repeated in his papers that Wisconsin is disloyal. Emperor William has received many shocks in the past year but the shock that the government is sending him today is the heaviest yet. The third Liberty Loan has been over subscribed by many millions will have a terrible effect on him.

People of Janesville are responding to the call of the government before. After attending the patriotic meetings that were held last evening and listening to the plea to stand back of their government, the citizens have gone down in their pockets and drawers and have contributed their mite to the success wherever they visited and A. F. Lovejoy stated that he is sure that Janesville will go over the top by Wednesday evening and that the government will be flying from the city hall on Thursday morning telling all that Janesville has responded to the call of the government and have sent the message to Bill in Berlin that the people of Wisconsin are loyal and that the state of Wisconsin over subscribed their quota by many millions.

It has been heard said during the past twenty-four hours that at last the people of Janesville have awakened to the fact that the government is in danger. Many of the people of this city have been slow in realizing that this country is at war and that their lives and property are in danger. They have thought of this war as a game and that it could be won by outwitting the enemy as usual but as the days go past they see that it can't be done and that in some instances business must be forgotten for the good of the country. The energy of the people thrown into war work.

People have been heard to remark that they are getting tired of these so-called Liberty Loan campaigns and that the government is squandering the money they receive. To these people answer that the government has in the past year put under arms 1,500,000 young American men, has built and equipped 16 modern battleships, has sent 16 modern destroyers throughout the United States. These cannonments contain everything with the exception of street cars that any modern city of the world could desire. They have equipped them with heating and electric plants. Good roads and theatres. This government has also put to sea 12,634 vessels within the past twelve months. This is where the money has been spent. Would any serious minded person say that the government was wasting their money?

It is no time for the citizens to get tired of Liberty Loan campaigns. They have just started and there will be more of them and still more and it is the duty of the people to assist in them and back them with every ounce of energy they are capable of.

The four minute speakers were on the job early this morning. At nine o'clock M. O. Mount spoke to the employees of the Goetz and company and at ten o'clock he spoke to the employees of the Hanson furniture factory at one o'clock. The factory meetings will continue throughout the week. W. H. Dougherty spoke at the Methodist church at two o'clock. The four young men who were taken into custody on Saturday at this city on Saturday, as Woodstock is dry, to get a few drinks, as they termed it, and this morning they were brought before Judge Maxfield on their contemplated good time with a fine of $25 and costs or thirty days in jail for each one of them.

Mrs. Carrie Koebelin Describes Great Confederate Memorial Being Built Near Atlanta, Georgia.

An interesting paper on the great Confederate memorial, written by Mrs. Carrie Koebelin, was a feature of the meeting of the Philomathian club, held at the home of Mrs. Andrew Gibbons, on Saturday afternoon. This monument is being designed by the United States government and is to be a granite cliff near Atlanta, Georgia. The face of the cliff where the work is to be done is 800 by 100 feet. It will be a feature of two thousand men in battle array, with Jefferson Davis in the center. The figures are to be carved in semi-relief, and in the proportion that will make the figure of man about fifty feet high. At the foot of the monument is to be a park, with lovely walks and drives. It will take about eight years to complete. It will cost upward of two millions of dollars. Other monuments in the south were mentioned, including the Grady statue at Atlanta, the monument to the women of the confederacy at Rome, Georgia, and the parks at Chattanooga where so many of the soldiers were buried.

Reading by Mrs. Kerch was from the book, "Little Citizens," and extracts were read from reports sent out by the council of defense in regard to women's work in the south.

Tales of the Friendly Forest hear the wind's moan and groan, and every once in a while a great gust would come out of the mouth of the great cave and almost blow you off your feet.

Well, sir, that's just what happened to Billy Bunny. He no sooner stood right in front of the cave than a great blast of air knocked him off his feet and rolled him over thirty-three times and a half, and he would have rolled over thirty-four times even if a big log hadn't been in the way. And it was mighty lucky for the little rabbit that the log was there for if it hadn't been he would have rolled right over the edge of the mountain. Just think of that!

And just then a voice began to sing:

Oh, I'm the king of the windy cave
Where I have my windy throne,
And these I rule where it's nice and cold.

Mid the glimmer of precious stone,
You remember in the best story
That Billy Bunny gave the Windiest a doughnut to take home to her little bunny.

I won't hurt you. Come into my cave, and that was why she didn't take the little rabbit. Well, as she walked off with the doughnut, Billy Bunny said to himself, "I'll never, never be without a doughnut in my knapsack!" And I guess you would have said the same thing, too, if a doughnut had saved you from a wildcat!

After that the little rabbit hopped along through the Friendly Forest, and by and by he came to the Windy Cave. Now I know I've never told you about this cave before, because Billy Bunny never happened to visit it, but now that he has I'll tell you that it was a strange sort of a place. If you stood at the opening you could And when the autumn days are come I come forth with a lusty shout, And strip the trees of their whispering leaves And strew them all about.

And then all the trees began to shiver and shake, but the wind king only laughed, as he whispered to the little rabbit, "Don't be afraid, Billy Bunny. I won't hurt you. Come into my cave, and that was why she

"What kind of a present?" asked the little rabbit, for he wasn't going to be fooled, no, streamam! "A big ruby pin!" said the wind king.

So the little bunny went inside the cave with the wind king, but he did not go in very far, for he was afraid. "What's the matter?" asked the wind king. "You're not frightened, are you?"

"Not exactly," said Billy Bunny, trying to keep his teeth from chattering. "I guess I'm cold!" Then the king opened a door and oh my! Wasn't it beautiful inside! The sides of the cave were diamonds and rubies and emeralds, and little gold and silver bells swung back and forth, making a sweet kind of music. "The little breezes are ringing the bells," said the wind king, and then he took out of a moss cushion a beautiful ruby scarpin and handed it to Billy Bunny. "Put it in your tie," said the king, "and don't you ever lose it." And in the next story if the dog-wood tree in our yard doesn't catch cold tonight and lose its bark, so it can't scare the pussy cat when she tries to climb up and catch the little robin in the nest, I'll tell you about Billy Bunny and the Canary Bird.

Do you know that George Stallings is one of the most mercurious managers in baseball—and one of the most successful?

Five Hundred Thousand American Soldiers in France

We dare not delay the VICTORY now. American lives are at stake, our own safety, the safety of the whole world. If we are not to prolong the slaughter and the suffering, if we are not to risk defeat or an inconclusive peace, we must act quickly; we must put forth our every effort now.

The army is doing its part. Five hundred thousand American soldiers are in France today. There will be more tomorrow. And more the day after. We are going to send an army large enough so that when we strike, with our Allies, we can drive the German hordes back across the Rhine—so that we can win the decisive VICTORY that will make American freedom safe, and establish a just and lasting peace.

But the whole nation must take part. Our armies in France are looking to us to furnish them in ever greater abundance, the ordnance, the munitions, the supplies that will make their VICTORY possible. We must not fail them.

The Third Liberty Loan is our share in the winning of this war. Upon it depends the safety and success of five hundred thousand American soldiers in France.

An official photograph of the club with which the German armies "finish off" wounded soldiers. 32,000 of these were recently captured by the Italians.

The Destruction of Civilization

This is in grim reality what we are fighting this war to prevent. The club pictured above—from an actual official photograph—might be the weapon of a savage cave man of five thousand years ago. It is in fact the weapon with which German soldiers finish off the enemy wounded who have fallen on the battlefield—on the battlefield on which American boys are fighting.

There is only one answer to make to such methods the defeat of the German Armies. America has taken up the sword to give that answer. Our Army is in France to help win this war on the battlefield—that civilization may be safe, that America may be safe.

You Can Have Your Share in America's Answer to German Savagery

The Third Liberty Loan is your opportunity. It is the most direct blow that can be struck at German military supremacy. It is the most powerful aid that can be given our soldiers in France. It means rifles and helmets and gas masks—the best protection for our men from German brutality. It means big guns and shells and airplanes—and VICTORY!

Invest TODAY in bonds of the Third Liberty Loan, and save the lives of American soldiers.

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Clears the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating. No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result.

These vapors, breathed in all night long, carry the medication, properties, consummation for which he had worked from the moment he read that letter of Esteban's on the morning after Donna Isabel's death. That there was a treasure Cueto had never doubted, and, once the place was his to do with as he chose, he began his search.

Commencing at the lower edge of the grounds, he ripped them up with a series of deep trenches and cross-cuttings. It was a task that required the labor of many men for several weeks, and when it was finished there was scarcely a growing thing left upon the place. Only a few of the larger trees remained. Cueto was disappointed at finding nothing, but he was not discouraged. Next he tore down the old slave huts and the outbuildings, after which he completely wrecked the residence itself. He pulled it apart bit by bit, brick by brick. He even dug up its foundations, but without the reward of so much as a single peseta. Finally, when the villa was but a heap of rubbish and the grounds a scar upon the slope of La Cumbre, he desisted, baffled, incredulous, while all Matanzas laughed at him. Having sacrificed his choicest residence, he retired in chagrin to the plantation of La Joya.

But Cueto was now a man with a grievance. He burned with rage, and his contempt for the boy and girl he had wronged soured into hatred. In time he began to realize also that so long as they lived they would jeopardize his tenure of his property. Public feeling, at present, was high; there was intense bitterness against all rebels; but the war would end some day. What then? Cueto asked himself. Sympathy was ever on the side of the weak and oppressed. There would come a day of reckoning.

As it to swell his discomfiture and strengthen his fears, out from the hills at the head of the Yumuri issued rumors of a little band of guerrillas, under the leadership of a bearded boy—a band of blacks who were making the upper valley unsafe for Spanish scouting parties.

Cursing the name of Varona, Pancho Cueto armed himself. He did not venture far alone, and, like Donna Isabel before him, he began to have bad dreams at night.

One day a field of Cueto's cane was burned, and his laborers reported seeing Esteban and some negroes riding into the wood. The overseer took horse within the hour and rode pell-mell to Matanzas. In the city at this time was a certain Colonel Cobo, in command of Spanish volunteers, those execrable convict troops from the Isle of Pines whose atrocities had already marked them as wolves rather than men, and to him Pancho went with his story.

"Ah, yes! That Varona boy, I've heard of him," Cobo remarked, when his caller had finished his account. "He has reason to hate you, I dare say, for you robbed him." The colonel smiled disagreeably.

Cueto murmured something to the effect that the law had placed him in his position as trustee for the crown, and should therefore protect him; but Colonel Cobo's respect for the law, it seemed, was slight. In his view there was but one law in the land, the law of force.

"Why do you come to me?" he asked. "That fellow is a desperado," Pancho declared. "He should be destroyed."

"Bah! The country is overrun with desperados of his kind, and worse. Burning crops is nothing new. I'd make an end of him soon enough, but nearly all of my men are in Cadenas. We have work enough to do."

"I'd make it worth while, if you could put an end to him," Pancho said, hesitatingly. Then, recalling some of those stories about Colonel Cobo, he added, "There are two of them, you know, a boy and a girl."

"Ah, yes! I remember." "I can direct you to the house of Asensio, where they live."

"Um-m!" Cobo was thoughtful. "A girl. How old is she?"

"Eighteen." "Only as an alligator, I'll warrant." "Ha! The most ravishing creature in all Matanzas. All the men were mad over her."

Colonel Cobo, the guerrilla, licked his full, red lips and ran a strong, square hand over his curly, short-cropped hair. "You say you know where she—where they are living?"

"Ah, perfectly! It's less than a night's ride. There's no one except the boy to reckon with."

"How much is he worth to you?" bluntness inquired the soldier, and Cueto sat down to make the best terms possible.

"Do you think he received my letter?" Rosa asked of her brother one evening as they sat on the board bench by Asensio's door. It was a familiar question to Esteban; he had answered it many times.

"Oh, yes," he declared. "Lopez' messenger got through to Key West."

"Then why doesn't he come?" "But, my dear, you must be patient. Think of his difficulties."

This subject always distressed young Varona; therefore he changed it. "Come! You haven't heard of my good fortune. I captured another fine snake today, a big, sleepy fellow. Believe me, he'll wake up when I set fire to his tail. He'll go like the wind, and with every foot he goes away will go more of Pancho Cueto's profits."

"You intend to burn more of his fields?" absentmindedly inquired the girl. "It seems terrible to destroy our own property."

Esteban broke out excitedly; he could not discuss Pancho Cueto without losing control of himself. "Would you permit that traitor to fatten upon the profits of our plantations? I shall ruin him, as he ruined us."

Rosa shook her dark head sadly. "And we are indeed ruined. Think of our beautiful house; all our beautiful things, too! We used to consider ourselves poor, but—how little we knew of real poverty. There are so many things I want. Have we nothing left?"

"I thought I best to buy those rifles," the brother murmured, dropping his eyes. "It was one chance in a million."

"No, no! Think for yourself. It was old Sebastian who dug that well—"

"Yes." "And he alone shared father's confidence. That sunken garden was all Sebastian's work. No one else was allowed to tend it. Why? I'll tell you. They feared to let anyone else draw the water. Isabel searched for years; if that treasure had been above ground her sharp nose would have smelled it out, and now Cueto has moved the very earth."

Esteban whispered, "In the Well."

Rosa sat back disappointed. "So that's your theory?"

"It's more than a theory," the boy insisted. "Look at this!" From the pocket of his cotton trousers he produced an odd-looking coin, which he placed in Rosa's hand.

"Why, it's gold! It's a Spanish doubloon," she said. "It's the first one I ever saw. Where did you find it?"

"You'll think I'm crazy when I tell you—sometimes I think so myself. I found it in Isabel's hand when I took her from the well!"

Rosa was stricken speechless. "She clutched it tightly," Esteban hurried on, "but as I made the rope fast her hand relaxed and I saw it in the lantern light. It was as if—well, as if she gave it to me. I was too badly frightened to think much about it, as you may imagine. It was a horrible place, all slime and foul water; the rocks were slippery. But that coin was in her fingers!"

Rosa managed to say: "Impossible! Then she must have had it when she fell."

"No, no! I saw her hands upstretched, her fingers open, in the moonlight."

"It's uncanny. Perhaps—"

"Yes. Perhaps some unseen hand led her to the place so that we should at last come into our own. Who knows? There's no doubt that father hid his money. He turned his slaves into gold, he bought jewels, precious metal, anything he could hide. Well, perhaps there were old coins in the lot. The water in the well is shallow; Isabel must have groped this piece from the bottom. Some day I shall explore the hole and—we shall see."

Rosa flung her arms rapturously about her brother's neck and kissed him. "Wouldn't it be glorious?" she cried. "Wouldn't it be wonderful, to be rich, and to want for nothing; to have fine clothes and good things to eat once more? Good things to eat!" Her lip quivered. "Oh—I'm so hungry."

"Poor little girl!" "Wait till O'Reilly hears about this," Rosa was all excitement once more. "He'll be glad he came and got me, if he does come."

Esteban caressed her. "He'll come, never fear. I know it. Every time I leave you my heart is in my throat for fear of what may happen in my absence—and yet I can't always be at your side."

"There! You acknowledge that I handicap you. Except for me you would be making a glorious name for yourself."

STEEL WORKERS WILL GET WAGE INCREASE
New York, April 15.—Effective today a 15 per cent increase in wages will be given about 200,000 employees of the United States steel corporation.

Elbert H. Gray estimates that the increase would cost the company about $12,000,000. In 1914 and 1917 wages were increased at various times to 65 per cent more than was paid in 1915. The increase today makes a total increase of about 80 per cent above the wages of 1915.

Stop the Hun With Your Money—

OVER a million American Soldiers are making a barrier of their bodies today to keep the Huns from our shores; they are fighting, and bleeding and dying right now to save your home and your life from the iron heel of German domination.

Our boys are making a barrier of their bodies. We cannot stand idly by with our hands in our pockets—we must help them. We have got to help them.

WE MUST build with our dollars another barrier between the enemy and the soldiers who are fighting our battles over there.

Liberty Bonds will build this barrier. Liberty Bonds will buy guns and ammunition—airplanes—the tanks that will go before them and clear the way to Victory.

The boys are doing their share. We must buy Liberty Bonds to the limit of our resources.

LIVES alone cannot win this war for us.

It will take money—your money and my money. Let us not loiter in soft and easy plenty over here while our boys are making a barrier of their bodies against the largest, the deadliest, the most terrible army in the history of the world. Pile your Bonds on the barrier of dollars we must put up between our American Soldiers and the enemy.

I've Stood By You

For 141 Years

Will You Help Me

NOW?

FOR near a century and a half I have given you that grandest of man's privileges---Liberty. The Liberty of Right, Liberty of Thought and Liberty of Possession.

I have assured to you the Freedom of Our Great and Glorious Country, and the Freedom of the Mighty Ocean Highways of the World, that you might go and come on your legitimate errands without molestation and without restraint.

But the power of unrighteous Might, of armed Prussianism, has arisen; and like a dreadful, murderous beast of the night has sprung at the throats of the peace-loving nations of the world; has sought to take from them their righteous, God-given privileges.

Its aim is world wide. Its creed is Greed and the survival of armed strength over Liberty and Justice; the trampling under foot of the weak and helpless among the nations and peoples of the Earth. Its victory means a victory over Democracy, and—

Without Democracy All Is Lost For YOU And For ME.

God has given to all the inalienable rights of Liberty. He has entrusted to me the preservation of these inviolable rights, with the imposed duty of armed conflict, if necessary, to defend them.

He is calling on me now to help uphold and perpetuate these rights for YOU and for the nations of the world, in order that the fate of poor, outraged, enslaved and murdered Belgium may not become YOUR fate and mine.

My life is your life. My fate is your fate. It is in your power and in your power alone to give me the strength I need in this critical period, that God's justice may be meted out.

That strength Lies in Liberty Bonds.

Purchase Them—as you value Life and Liberty.
